Friday, December 17, 2010 So, you've been campaigning for a while now, you've collected a bunch of signatures, and you've had some interest from people in your district and others across the city (yes, more than you could have imagined)... You've been selected as one of the 3 candidates for School Board for a special election. The election will be held in February of 2011. Now what? So what next? Well, the first thing you need to do is start campaigning the way you've been doing since you got into the race. You've been consistently talking about education and also your platform, and giving people a chance to get to know you better. At this point, you still haven' ba244e880a
