EarMaster Pro Serial Number.Q: PowerShell strange object return behavior I'm working with PowerShell from some time and I'm not really familiar with it. My problem is the following: When I run this: Get-PSDrive "C:" | where {$_.totalbytes -gt "100"} | select totalbytes it returns this object: totalbytes -------------------- 100 200 300 400 (because there are five drives in my workstation and one of them is C:) But the following command returns this: Get-PSDrive "C:" | where {$_.totalbytes -gt "100"} | select Name totalbytes ------------------------ C Any ideas about what's happening here? A: You're probably running PowerShell in the interactive mode. As a result, the Select command sends objects to the pipeline which is not what you want. You have to use Select-Object instead. The "any ideas" comment comes from your previous question: How to filter out a very large amount of items? A: I have just tried your script and it seems you
