\end{tabular} \end{document} Q: How can I configure phpunit to run tests in parallel on same host? I have been using PHPUnit for my project. I use phpunit --testsuite=Extensions to run all my tests. Problem is, when I run this command I run one test per thread on one host. This means I need 30+ hosts and 30+ virtual environments to run the tests. Is it possible to execute the test with one virtual environment with multiple thread on one host? I've also tried to use phpunit --bootstrap /var/www/dev/vendor/autoload.php phpunit.xml, but then I get a fatal error Fatal error: Uncaught Exception: Error creating test case class: Class not found A: Add the phpunit option --parallel-instances (note that this means you'll have to make sure your test require the same packages and test classes in each test, otherwise they won't run in parallel). Parallel instances run tests in parallel on a single host machine. Tests do not have to be test classes; any PHP file will do. The parallel-instances option may be specified multiple times, up to the number of CPUs available to the test running. It defaults to 1, which will only run one test at a time, regardless of how many CPUs there are on the host. New Website For The Memphis Grizzlies & New Memphis Grizzlies App The Memphis Grizzlies and its fans got a lot to talk about this weekend. The Grizzlies announced their moves for the new year, and they went public about their plans to create a new mobile and web application for their fans. The Grizzlies have had a Mobile application on the market for some time now. It had a lot of room for improvement, so the team came up with a new application that will be coming out this year. The application will be available for Android and iOS devices. The Memphis Grizzlies revealed that a new Memphis Grizzlies team mobile application will be launched in the new year. The new application will be available on both Android and iOS devices. The application will give the fans a wealth of details, such as player information, stats, schedule, tickets, etc. There are even live streams and social media. The team is calling this app the "Gri
