Here you have a little comparison with the script you had and the solution using awk: Original command: find. -name "media" -exec mplayer -v -slave -nolock -nosound -fadecancy -zoom -vo xv {} \; Script: find. -name "media" -exec mplayer -v -slave -nolock -nosound -fadecancy -zoom -vo xv {} \; -exec grep -Hn -w "1040" {} \; Solution using awk: find. -name "media" -exec awk -v ORS=" " '{if ($NF == "1040") print $0}' \; Solution using perl: find. -name "media" -exec perl -nwe 'print join(" ",@F) if $F[4] eq "1040"' \; Solution using Python: import re directory = "/home/username/folder/script" dir_list = os.listdir(directory) files = [i for i in dir_list if i.endswith("m4a")] for filename in files: print re.search(r'^\s*(1040)',filename).group(1) Following the most closely watched gubernatorial election in the country this year, Oregon voters on Tuesday chose Democratic incumbent Gov. Kate Brown to succeed the term-limited Republican Gov. John Kitzhaber, who resigned in February amid allegations of political interference in his fiancée's unsuccessful 2015 run for state Senate. While Brown easily won, she also faced opposition from Republican challenger Knute Buehler, a businessman who has run statewide as an independent. Buehler garnered just under 24 percent of the vote compared with Brown's 65 percent, according to Oregon Public Broadcasting. In Washington, Democrat Jay Inslee was declared the winner over Republican Rob McKenna.
