proDAD DeFishr is a piece of software designed to help users remove fisheye from their photos and videos, offering support for a wide range of camera types. Simple, intuitive interface The application comes with an easy-to-use, straightforward interface that allows users to load the clips they want to correct with only a few mouse clicks. The selected video is previewed in the tool's workspace, but users can load multiple files at the same time, and they can also switch between them easily, as they are all displayed in the app's right-side panel, under the Media Bin tab. Edit and apply camera profiles With the help of this program, users can take advantage of automatic fisheye removal capabilities, as the tool comes with support for a variety of camera profiles. Users can choose the profile that best suits their needs, and the tool automatically applies all of the necessary corrections.

Furthermore, the utility allows users to edit profiles, so as to ensure that they deliver the best possible experience. Create new camera profiles The application comes with an integrated calibrator tool, which can be used to create new camera profiles, provided that those already available can't do deliver a great experience. The calibrator allows users to record videos with their cameras using a calibration grid, thus being able to detect the necessary camera settings and to correct existing clips. At the same time, the utility allows users to customize the camera by modifying lenses, tilt, zoom, pan, and other settings. Enjoy fast performance During our testing, we noticed that proDAD DeFishr can deliver fast performance, and that it does not require a large amount of system resources for that. However, the tool had issues loading some of our videos, and couldn't load clips in batches if one of them wasn't supported. All in all, proDAD DeFishr could prove a great companion tool for users looking for fisheye removal options, given that it comes with a simple, intuitive interface and that it does not require advanced computer skills to be operated. Oral contraceptives and the risk of suicide attempt in Australian women. In 1986, the Australian government introduced a 10-year trial of oral contraceptives. It was not until 1994 that women were able to obtain oral contraceptives from a government approved source. This study examines the possible relation between oral contraceptive use and the risk of suicide attempt. Data from the 1989-1992 national health surveys were analyzed using logistic regression. Self reported data showed Serotonin syndrome during a transdermal scopolamine patch treatment in a patient with uterine fibroids.

Serotonin syndrome is an unusual, potentially life-threatening adverse drug reaction which has been described during the use of many drugs, mostly antidepressants, and is rarely associated with the use of fenfluramine. We report a case of severe serotonin syndrome in a patient receiving a transdermal scopolamine patch who had a history of prior fenfluramine use and was reported to be recovering from amenorrhea with the current treatment. Based on this case and a review of the literature, serotonin syndrome is a medical emergency that can result from the rapid discontinuation of antipsychotics and other psychotropic agents in
