Q: Bash Script using foldername and subfoldername as argument I am trying to create a bash script which accepts a folder name and subfolder name as arguments and then places the folder and its subfolders in the current directory. I have written the following script: #!/bin/bash #get folder arguments folder=${1} #get the folder name folderName=`basename $folder` #get the subfolder name subfolderName=`dirname $folder` cd $folder mkdir $subfolderName mkdir $folderName mkdir $subfolderName mkdir $folderName/GOTLAUNCHED mkdir $folderName/SOMETHINGELSE mkdir $folderName/Lorem If I run this script using the following command script.sh ~/data/folder/folderName/subfolderName I get the following result: mkdir: total 4 drwxr-xr-x 2 root wheel 60 Feb 8 23:17 GOTLAUNCHED drwxr-xr-x 2 root wheel 60 Feb 8 23:16 SOMETHINGELSE drwxr-xr-x 2 root wheel 6 Feb 8 23:18 Lorem However if I run this script using the following command script.sh ~/data/folder/folderName subfolderName I get the following result: directory ~/data/folder/subfolderName does not exist So my questions are: How do I modify the script to get a folder structure as shown below? How do I modify the script so that it never creates a folder if the parent folder already exists? A: The problem is, your script doesn't use $folder at all. The easiest way to fix it is by doing this: #!/bin/bash #get folder arguments folder=${1} #get the folder name folderName=`basename $folder` #get the subfolder name subfolderName=`dirname $folder` cd "$folder" mkdir "$subfolderName" mkdir "$folderName" mkdir "$subfolderName" mkdir "$folderName/GOTLA

Q: How to load external java script file in GWT I am new to GWT.In my project we are using java script in a form of external script file.I am using the following syntax to load it. ScriptLoader scriptloader = new ScriptLoader(); scriptloader.setBaseUri("//calculator.js"); scriptloader.addDomReadyScript(Calculator.NAMESPACE, Calculator.class); i am trying to load it in my GWT form like ScriptLoader scriptloader = new ScriptLoader(); scriptloader.addText("calculator.js", "alert('HI')"); But it is not working.Any suggestion? A: In your example, scriptloader.addText("calculator.js", "alert('HI')"); will only add javascript code to your page that will be executed as soon as the page is loaded. In order to actually run the javascript code, you need to call some constructor of your javascript class like ScriptLoader.ScriptManager Q: How to select the titles of the every 3rd div with jQuery Title 1 Title 2 Title 3 Title 4 Title 5 How can I select the "Title" on the 3rd div by using jQuery? Ex. I want to get the "Title 2" as the result. Thank you. A: You can do this with $.each() $(".test_3").each(function(){ alert($(this).find("span.title").text()); }); Or since
