*Applications written in 64-bit platforms require extra steps to avoid potential problems arising from the tampering or exploitation of the code. Authorised users can perform the code integrity checks at once to find missing protection or critical errors. *The Application Self-Protection Engine (ASProtect 64) is an application integrated code protection tool, which analyzes the applications, detects vulnerabilities and provides a list of actions to be taken in order to protect the targeted code. As a standalone application, the main strength of the tool is the rapid scanning of applications, the flexibility of the available settings and the ability to generate reports with the submitted data. Express Deploy is a software deployment and management tool designed to quickly deploy your applications. You can create a Windows installer for your application using the wizard, specify the location of the application, and set the installation parameters. A log file is created with a link to the shared folder where the file is going to be installed. These links can be easily shared with your team and friends. Express Deploy can be installed without a license and requires minimal administrative rights. The tool is written in C#, Visual Basic, and C++, and uses.NET framework 2.0 and later. Express Deploy Features: *Create a Windows installer from the source code of your application, specifying the destination directory and the installation location. You can edit the Windows shortcut and set the registry settings for the application to run with the specified user account, etc. *Specify the location and size of the shared folders from where the installer will install the shared files. These can be either in the same network as the destination folder, or they can be located on removable media such as CD or DVD. *Optionally, create a log file that will contain the following: * A link to the destination folder where the application is going to be installed. * A link to the shared folder where the files will be installed. * Optionally, the link to the shared folder can also be copied to clipboard, which can be later used in batch files, scripts, and the rest of your application, without the need for using the link. * Make the application run with the specified account permissions, either the current logged in account, or with a group of users that you specify. [Full review] "ASProtect 64" is an easy-to-use freeware that will help to protect your application's code, binary, or both. The program features an intuitive interface and it's able to encrypt both source code and binary of 32 and 64-bit applications. The client and server are connected through the Internet. That way, it will provide full protection to a customer who wants to protect his/her project from different software, hardware or human attack, as well as from those who are trying to reverse-engineer your application for their own profit. Features: * Works with both 32 and 64-bit applications * Supports .NET code * Easy to use * Support for binary and source codes * Crypt functions (Integrity checks) * Built-in virus scanners * Helps to avoid reverse engineering * Can be used for a demo version * Support for multiple languages * Built-in debugger * Bit rate: 66* * Released under the GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE. "ASProtect 64" is a handy freeware that will help to protect your application from hackers or those looking for a quick buck. Its server-side functions are based on the client-server model, where the software will first encrypt source code, then binary and also binary code, although this is off by default. The additional protection against disassembling, decoding and reverse engineering will allow you to prevent external inspection of your application, thus making it harder for the bad guys to gain a hold of your intellectual property. The program is rather easy to use and intuitive. After the application is installed and connected to the server, only a few clicks are needed to encrypt source code and binary code. The client side is a simple interface where a selection of files can be made, with additional options such as trial period and language based on those of the target application. When using ASProtect 64, the software will encrypt both the source code and the binary of 32 and 64-bit applications. Of course, you can also encrypt your application's binary without it's source code. However, in that case, you have to provide a password to use the encrypted files. You will also be able to set up a trial period for your application as well as languages, such as English, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Czech and Polish. Another nice feature of this encryption software is that it will check your applications code for malicious viruses and zero-day threats. The software
