The community of Kirs covers an area of 11.642 km2. History Kirs village was an insignificant settlement of 761 residents in 2011. According to Greek author Timoleon Archezanos, it was destroyed in 1311 during the Latin Crusades, by the soldiers of the 13th century Byzantine Emperor John V Doukas, since it was under an Ottoman yoke. The village of Kirs is mentioned in the 14th century Choniates's History of the Latin Empire in Greece as being under Byzantine rule, although the village does not appear to be named in the text. Monuments The church of Agios Dimitrios is of Renaissance style and dates from the 17th century. It has a square layout and features a dome and bell tower, as well as a Renaissance portal. 82138339de
