3DComposer is a digital tool that manages to achieve something seemingly complex in a few steps. To create the 3D photos all you have to do is load them into the application in pairs and with a simple click of a button, it's done. There are no complicated settings to go through, the source images don't even need to be aligned as the application does that for you. The only things you can do to influence the outcome of the final product is to choose whether you want it stored in MPO or JPS format, as well as change the resolution, .jpeg encoding quality and adjustment depth.
