Having read this I believed it was very informative. I appreciate you taking the time and effort to put this content together. I once again find myself personally spending a significant amount of time both reading and leaving comments. But so what, it was still worth it! Heya this is kind of off topic but I was wanting to know if blogs use WYSIWYG editors or if you have to manually code with HTML. I'm starting a blog soon but have no coding knowledge so I wanted to get advice from somebody with experience. Any help would be greatly appreciated! I'm truly enjoying the design and layout of your site. It's a very easy on the eyes which makes it much more pleasant for me to come here and visit more often. Did you hire out a designer to create your theme? Superb work! Great blog here! Also your web site loads up very fast! What web host are you using? Can I get your affiliate link to your host? I wish my site loaded up as fast as yours lol In a city where almost every street has an art festival, there's a small, private gallery tucked away in an alley that bills itself as everything but a gallery. It's the space where, nearly every night, a rotating roster of artists gets up on stage to create songs made completely from looped samples of classic and contemporary hip-hop songs. This is the project of Make the Revolution, a new experimental collective made up of artists from eight different disciplines who perform, create, and work together in the same physical space. "Before we start making music, we make visuals. So we start with visuals that we really like, or the visuals inspire us and we get a lot of the ideas for things like that by going online, or just by watching things and reacting to it," says Saheb Vellani, the 15-year-old son of a blackjack dealer who runs the project. Aside from Vellani, the rest of the team is a recording artist, a book cover artist, a sculptor, a photographer, a filmmaker, a musician, and a comedian. They all work together, in a cluttered office space in East Williamsburg, to make their shows and build their records. Vellani has been working on Make the Revolution since his days of attending shows and recording artists as a teenager. There's a calendar to-do list on the walls of the office, with names like Disrespect 648931e174
